LAW 6798	Adv Legal Research	2	Morgan, Outler	This course teaches strategies for cost-effective and time-efficient legal research. Covers print and electronic research sources in depth, with an emphasis on primary and secondary sources in federal and state jurisdictions. Advanced topics examined include legislative history, administrative law sources, and subject-specific legal research. This course supplements the first year legal research program. The course objective is to ensure that students acquire knowledge and understanding of the available sources for legal research, and the ability to develop efficient research strategies.
LAW 6936	Advanced Estate Planning	2	Tritt	Pre-requisite: Fiduciary Administration
LAW 6550	Antitrust	3	Page	An analysis of the legal, economic and policy issues engendered by efforts to prescribe standards of business conduct and preserve competitive market structures under the Sherman Act, Clayton Act, Federal Trade Commission Act and related legislation.
LAW 6930	Business Enterprises Survey	3	Sokol	NOTE: Not available to students who have completed Corporations, Unincorporated Business Enterprises or Business Organizations. However, this course will satisfy the pre-requisite requirement for any course(s) requiring Corporations, Unincorporated Business Enterprises, or Business Organizations. Also, students MUST register for the 2 credit hour additional portion of this course. This course combines much of the existing coverage in both business organizations and corporations into a single course. This combined course will cover the general themes of business organizations (agency, partnership, LLCs, LLPs). It will also cover various issues in corporations (organization and structure of a corporation, financial rights of shareholders, closed corporations, control in publicly held firms, duties or care and loyalty, litigation to enforce directors' duties, mergers and acquisitions, and the regulation of disclosure, fraud and insider trading).
LAW 6930	Business Associations Survey	2	Sokol	Students must register for this 2 credit portion of this course along with the 3 credit hour portion for a total of 5 credit hours.
LAW 6930	Child Support Enforcement	2	Stafford	This course is about the pragmatic operation of Title IV-D child support establishment, modification, and the steps for enforcement of each of these factors by the courts. As this is an information, knowledge and skills-based course, it is hoped that students will both learn and appreciate the interconnecting responsibilities that law, the courts, the public, as well as various agencies play in trying to assure that all children receive the dignity and support due to them.

LAW 6930	Collaborative Law	2	Schneider	Collaborative law is a lawyering model focused on identifying the interests of all parties in a legal dispute and working to problem solve an answer reached by mutual decision rather than by the use of litigation. Through collaborative law, the parties and their attorneys commit to resolve all issues through respectful face-to-face negotiations. The model has been particularly well suited to family law matters, but is being used in many other areas as well. The approach is also compatible with alternative dispute resolution and therapeutic jurisprudence. This course is designed to familiarize studentts with both the theoretical underpinnings and the practical application of collaborative law principles. The course is designed as a skills course to train students in the methods of collaborative law. It is anticipated that in addition to readings and simulations, there will be guest lectures by other professionals integral to the collaborative process, including mental health professionals and financial planners.
LAW 6936	Comparative Constitutional Law: U.S. & South Africa	2	Rush	This seminar is open to any student who is interested in Constitutional Law, including Comparative Constitutional Law (with a focus on South Africa). Participation in our summer program in Cape Town is NOT required. It can be used to satisfy the writing requirement. Students will be evaluated on a final paper (2/3) and on class participation (1/3). The final paper involves writing a 20-25 page paper on a topic of interest to the student within the areas of equality and dignity. Class participation involves weekly discussions of assigned readings and presentation of the student's own paper. The final paper will not need to be completed by the time of the presentation.

LAW 6930	Corporate Governance	3	Siebecker	Pre-requisite: Corporations. This course will consider various problems regarding the governance, organization, and control of modern corporations. At the outset, the course will examine the basic purpose and structure of the corporate form, as well as the fundamental fiduciary duties owed by directors, officers, and other corporate insiders. In addition to examining some recent corporate scandals and resulting statutory reforms, the course will explore governance issues on a variety of sophisticated contexts involving proxy solicitation, shareholder advocacy, data security, mergers and acquisitions, corporate takeovers, and other complex transactions. To provide appropriate understanding of global corporate governance concerns, the course will also contrast American corporate law principles with governance structures in various international settings. The objective of the course is to develop your skills in critical legal analysis within a corporate governance context. To achieve that objective, the class will challenge you to think creatively about the motivating principles and implications of the various cases, statutes, legal doctrines, and theories covered. During class discussions, you will be encouraged to craft convincing arguments on each side of any legal issue and to marshal effectively evidence necessary to adduce any claim or defense. Moreover, you and your classmates will work together to anticipate potential legal problems within any corporate scenario and to articulate strategies to minimize, or to maximize, potential liability depending on the interests of the parties represented. By practicing critical legal analysis on a daily basis in class, you will develop the ability to tackle the most challenging problems in any corporate governance context.
LAW 6936	Corporate Social Responsibility	2	Siebecker	Pre-requisite: Corporations. Corporate Social Responsibility represents the integration of a various environmental, social ethical, and even political considerations into basic business strategies to produce a positive impact on society while still earning profits. With increasing frequency, consumers and investors are rewarding companies that embrace CSR by purchasing their products and stock. Currently, more than $14 trillion is invested worldwide in corporations based on the one or more socially responsible screening criteria. This seminar in Corporate Social Responsibility will explore a variety of pressing legal issues involving corporate governance, sustainable development, shareholder activism, executive compensation, the role of religion in the boardroom, international regulation, and CSR certification, among other topics. Through the readings and discussions, students will examine the American approach to CSR in light of international regulatory efforts and models of socially responsible businof the legal profession , ask students to evaluate their preferred professional role as a lawyer, review basic communication and dispute resolution skills, and then explore the theory and practice of each of these innovative disciplines in an effort to broaden the array

LAW 6063	Corporations	3	Cohn	Registration preference given to fall and spring entering students in their fourth full semester. Consideration of problems in organizing a corporation, disregard of the corporate fiction, control and management, derivative suits, and special problems of the close corporation. May also consider federal regulations controlling insider trading, proxy solicitations, and short-swing profits.
LAW 6052	Creditors' Remedies & Bankruptcy	3	Davis	Credit for Debtor-Creditor Law (LAW 6050) precludes additional credit for this course. A study of individual collection of monetary judgments and administration of insolvent estates under the Bankruptcy Code and state law. The non-bankruptcy materials cover execution, attachment, garnishment, proceedings in aid of execution and the liens and priority produced by judicial process. Bankruptcy focuses principally on liquidation proceedings and the trustee's powers to avoid transfers, with greater attention being given to business workouts when the course is taught for four credits.
LAW 6936	Crime in the Virtual Context	2	Jacobs	The course will look at the emerging growth of virtual environments and the application of criminal law to activities that take place within virtual environments. Some of the issues explored will be regulation of gambling, child pornography, money laundering and other financial fraud. In addition, the class will examine how in the absence of specific laws, communities develop their own informal and informal legal codes. Any registrant in this class MUST have a computer that can meet the specifications of running the Second Life virtual platform. Specifications for the platform can be found on the website for Second Life, www.secondlife.com
LAW 5100	Criminal Law	3	Jacobs, Stinneford, Nunn, Seigel	Substantive law of crimes, including principles of punishment, elements of typical crimes, complicity, inchoate crime, responsibility and defenses.
LAW 6930	Criminal Litigation	3	Haughton-Worrell	The objective of this course is to develop students' legal skills by guiding them through several of the major steps involved in criminal litigation. Criminal Litigation will be offered as a three credit course and will meet once a week for three hours. The students will be divided into prosecutors and defense attorneys. Students will be given an information or indictment charging the defendant with a crime, and describing the factual allegations underlying the charge. The first half of each class session will be devoted to lecture, video presentations, short reading assignments and discussion. The second half of each class will consist of skills development through simulation exercises. A different topic will be covered in each class. Topics will include an overview of the criminal pretrial process, witness interviewing, preliminary hearings, plea bargaining, drafting a motion to suppress evidence, other pre and post trial motions; and how to conduct a suppression hearing. The class will also cover voir dire, writing opening statements, closing arguments, direct-and-cross-examinations, objections, jury instructions and sentencing hearings. The trial portion of this course will focus specifically on criminal trial strategy and substance, as opposed to the general trial process and technique which is covered in trial practice. By walking through these steps, students will strengthen their knowledge of criminal pretrial procedure, and develop their criminal litigation skills.
LAW 6111	Criminal Procedure: Police and Police Practices	3	Nunn	Police as a social institution, including personnel, bureaucratic structure and incentives. Also covers police practices such as arrest, search, seizure, wiretapping, eavesdropping, use of informers, entrapment, confessions and lineups. Credit for this course precludes credit for Criminal Procedure Survey (LAW 6930).

LAW 6936	Environmental Justice Seminar	2	Flocks	The current environmental justice movement is at the crossroads where civil rights and environmental activism meet, and its importance on the social justice agenda continues to grow. Around the world certain populations are being disproportionately exposed to toxins that can seriously affect their well-being. Environmental justice is all about addressing these inequities from an interdisciplinary perspective that considers the social, economic, political, and legal issues governing human/environment interaction. After an introduction and background review of the environmental justice movement, the class will examine topics including the current legal responses, community perspectives, and issues of global concern. During the class, students will identify and research a particular topic of interest, make in-class presentations of their research, and write a seminar paper that can satisfy the advanced writing requirement.
LAW 6450	Estate Planning	3	Tritt	Prerequisites: Estates and Trusts (LAW 6430) and Taxation of Gratuitous Transfers (LAW 6620). Recommended: Fiduciary Administration (LAW 6440). Using problems as the primary means of instruction, will explore theories and skills involved in estate planning process. Specific topics include: estate planning engagement; information gathering; estate analysis; identification of client objectives; development of remedial and conventional estate plans; and selection of fiduciaries. Students will complete an exercise in document preparation in a transactional context.
LAW 6430	Estates & Trusts	3	Wright	Prerequisite: Property (LAW 5400). Registration preference will be given to students in their third full semester. Topics covered include intestate succession, gifts, execution of wills, creation of trusts, charitable trusts, ademption and lapse, powers and appointment.
LAW 6330	Evidence	4	Malavet	Prerequisite: Civil Procedure (LAW 5301). Registration preference will be given to students in their third full semester. A study of the law governing the proof of issues of fact before a judicial tribunal. Topics covered may include judicial notice, presumptions, burden of proof, hearsay, relevancy, testimonial proof, demonstrative and scientific proof, documentary proof and privileged communications. Emphasis is placed on the Federal Rules of Evidence
LAW 6302	Federal Courts	3	Rush	Prerequisite: Civil Procedure (LAW 5301). Recommended: Constitutional Law (LAW 5501) and Constitutional Law II (LAW 6502). LAW 6930	Finance for Lawyers	1	Willis	Note: This course is asynchronous online. Students who have taken the 3 credit course in ACCOUNTING AND FINANCE FOR LAWYERS may NOT take this course. This course will introduce students to the elements of finance: use of a Financial Calculator, including computation of the Present and Future Value of a Sum, the Present and Future Value of an Annuity, an Amortization, a Sinking Fund, plus the proper statement of an interest rate, including its conversion from a nominal to an effective rate or an annual percentage rate or yield. The course relates Finance and Accounting to practical situations likely to arise in many areas of law, including Family, Tort, Tax, Corporate, Debtor-Creditor, Bankruptcy, Retirement Planning, Estate Planning, Trusts, and Property law.
LAW 6511	First Amendment Law	3	Collier	This course will analyze and criticize the philosophical and legal bases of important contemporary restrictions on freedom of expression. Connections with larger issues of tolerance and related principles of first amendment law will also be pursued.
LAW 6936	First Amendment Theory	2	Collier	In the past few years the seminar has, along with my research interests, focused on symbolic speech. First, I ask the students to review the cases we'll read, which are leading cases involving symbolic speech. Then I ask the students to come to the second class with first, second, and maybe even third choices as to which case they would like to be responsible for, which means taking a lead role in its discussion and, at the end of the semester, doing a 15-minute oral argument for one side of the case. I try to get "teams" of two students per case, one for each side, in line with their preferences to the extent possible. So the next few weeks are devoted to the discussion of the cases, in the order and as grouped above. After that the teams meet with me separately in team conferences each week to discuss their oral arguments and their papers (about 20 pages, due at the end of the semester, and having "something to do" with their case). At some point I hand out the Guide for Counsel in Cases To Be Argued Before the Supreme Court of the United States (handout, from the Supreme Court's website). Then for the last two or so weeks of class we reconvene as a group for oral arguments, with the class as the Court. This seems to lend an air of realism to the class, and it has worked well.
LAW 6521	FL Administrative Law	2	Sellers	Coverage of Florida Administrative Procedure Act (FAPA), rule-making under the FAPA, decisions affecting substantial interests, enforcement of agency, judicial review under the FAPA, non-FAPA judicial review, government in the sunshine and public records.
LAW 6930	FL Civil Procedure	3	Mashburn	This course surveys procedural law governing the litigation of civil cases in Florida. It explores in greater depth Florida state law counterparts to federal issues such as the judicial branch's control over procedure, personal jurisdiction, subject matter jurisdiction, and liberal pleading and discovery. It also examines the ways in which Florida's procedures differ from those of other jurisdictions and highlights some areas unique to Florida, such as heightened requirements for pleading punitive damages and the awarding of attorney's fees based on offers of judgement. Prereqs: Civil Procedure.
LAW 6503	FL Constitutional Law	2	Mills	Analysis of selected provisions of the Florida Constitution, with emphasis on recent decisions of the Florida Supreme Court; analysis of current proposals for constitutional change.

LAW 6936	FL Constitutional Law and the FL Supreme Court	2	Overton	It is a Seminar that studies the multiple and unique provisions of the Florida Constitution. This includes all state constitutional principles including those that govern and establish our state courts. Customarily, we take a trip to Tallahassee to visit the Supreme Court and observe actual oral arguments. Instead of an exam students are required to write a paper that qualifies as their senior paper on a state constitutional issue or issues. Their grade is based on their paper." (State Constitutional Law is a subject that is mandated to be on the Florida part of the bar exam.)
LAW 6930	FL Criminal Procedure	2	Dekle	A survey of the Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure. Will familiarize students with the rules, examine the nuances of the rules, explore commonly encountered pitfalls, and study the interplay between the rules and the Florida Statutes.
LAW 6949	FL J. of International Law	1	Hernandez	Maximum credits allowed are three; third credit only available to editors. Maximum credits allowed for any combination of co-curricular activities (International Commercial Arbitration Moot, Jessup Moot Court Team, Trial Team, Moot Court, Florida Law Review , Florida Journal of International Law , Journal of Technology Law and Policy and Journal of Law and Public Policy) are four. Research, writing, and editorial work for the Florida Journal of International Law . Limited to students whose scholastic average meets the requirements for international law journal work. Course is graded on a Satisfactory (S), Unsatisfactory (U) basis. NOTE: Students who successfully complete an open writing candidacy for the Florida Journal of International Law , as certified by the faculty adviser, may register for one credit of LAW 6949 retrospectively in term of enrollment next succeeding term in which the candidacy was completed.
LAW 6930	FL Land Use Law	1	Hawkins	This course is designed to introduce students to issues they may encounter while practicing land use law as a Florida attorney. The class will meet every other week for two hours during the semester. Students will read several Florida cases and Attorney General Opinions per semester. However, most of the reading assignments will consist of articles from the Florida Bar's Environmental and Land Use Law Section Treatise. By focusing most of the reading on selections from the treatise, students will be exposed to a wider range of Florida case law than possible if they had to read each case individually.

LAW 6433	Future Interests	2	Wright	Topics include protection of the family, termination of trusts, classification of possessory and future interests, gifts to classes and Rule Against Perpetuities.
LAW 6930	Global Corporate Compliance	2	Pillow	This course is intended to introduce the student to the legal and business issues encountered by companies seeking to ensure legal compliance as they do business around the world. The course will cover key statutes, international conventions and cases that address bribery, corruption and other compliance requirements and will also delve into "real world" case studies, typical business transactions and the fundamentals of effective corporate compliance programs. While geared to a company based in the United States, the issues apply to companies based anywhere. The principal objective is to educate students as to the critical role of legal compliance in conducting international business. Students will gain an understanding of the basic laws and receive practical guidance on advising business clients. Upon completion, students should know the basic requirements of a successful corporate compliance program. We will explore tension between strict legal compliance and achievement of business objectives.
LAW 6936	Growth Management	2	Jourdan	State growth management practices have revolutionized the practice of land use law in a number of rapidly growing states across the country. Florida has been a pioneer in the development of strategies which control the time, location, and manner of development in the State. This course will introduce students to both the planning and legal aspects which justify the use of such strategies. Students will draft a seminar style paper on the topic of their choice during the course of the class.

LAW 6936	Historic Preservation	2	McLendon	This seminar will be a survey of the legal structure behind historical and archaeological resources protection in the United States. The first part of the seminar will involve lectures, readings, and discussions of federal preservation laws, including both specific federal laws (e.g. the National Historic Preservation Act and NEPA,) as well as federal programs in support of preservation (e.g. the National Register of Historic Places.) The second part of the seminar will focus on the state and local preservation structure, especially the designation and protection of individual landmarks and historic districts. A final section will consider some of the constitutional issues raised by historic preservation, including takings, due process, and first amendment issues.
LAW 6930	Human Side of Lawyering	2	Cohen, Keroack	The practice of law to a large extent involves working with people, and to practice law well, lawyers must be skilled not only in analyzing facts and rules but also in addressing the human side of legal practice. This course will assist you in developing relational skills and emotional intelligence competencies rooted in empirical social science research. This will help you work with people more efficiently and effectively. The course will increase your self-awareness by helping you recognize your own values, beliefs and attitudes, as such factors can both significantly impact the work you do and the satisfaction you find within it. The course will also consider relatively new legal movements and perspectives (e.g., ADR, therapeutic jurisprudence, and collaborative law) that support the humanization of the law. This is intended to be an interactive course. Along with readings, written assignments and in-class discussions, simulation exercises and student presentations may also be used as vehicles for learning.
LAW 6600	Income Taxation	4	Hudson, Snider	Designed to teach the fundamentals of federal income taxation in order to prepare students, as lawyers, to recognize and appreciate income tax consequences of transactions and events they encounter in general practice of law. Students are introduced to essential legal skills of learning to read and understand the language of statutes (the Internal Revenue Code) as well as that of an administrative agency (the Internal Revenue Service) and judicial interpretations of the statutes and agency pronouncements. Students who wish to take additional courses in taxation should consider taking Income Taxation in their second year because it is a prerequisite to all of the other income tax courses.
LAW 6621	Income Taxation of Estates & Trusts	3	Calfee	Prerequisite: Income Taxation (LAW 6600). The general practitioner frequently encounters problems relating to family income tax matters and the use of custodial devices such as trusts, inter vivos or testamentary. This course addresses the income tax consequences of estates, trusts and beneficiaries with a view to minimizing drafting blunders.
LAW 6080	Insurance Law	2	Jerry	Various forms of policies—such as Fire, Homeowners, Automobile, Health and Accident, Floater; concepts of marketing, claims, processing, and insurance institutions, principles of indemnity, risk transference, reasonable expectancies, and unconscionable advantages.

LAW 6936	International Children's Law	2	King	This course is about international children's rights. The course explores the concept of childhood itself, what human rights violations children face today and the role that gender plays in determining the life chances of children. This course also considers child migration, more specifically, child trafficking, child labor, child sex trafficking and also considers children in armed conflict. In addition this course considers the movement of children for family reasons, and more specifically, transnational adoption, children who have lost their parents due to AIDS, child refugees and asylum seekers.
LAW 6936	International Financial Crimes	2	Baldwin	This seminar will examine laws, executive orders, International agreements, and judicial decisions impacting upon national as well as transnational illicit money transfers especially within the context of terrorism funding. We will review legislation and treaties pertaining to money laundering from the United Nations, United States, and other selected states. We will devote some time to the programs in the United States, including the USA Patriot Act and judicial responses. We will also follow international governmental regulatory maturity post 9/11. The seminar paper will be a minimum of 25 pages and will satisfy the advanced writing requirement.
LAW 6930	International Commercial Arbitration Moot (ICAM)	3	Dawson	A course designed to instruct students in the processes of international commercial arbitration through participation in a world-wide competition among over 150 law schools. In the fall semester, students become familiar with the Vienna Convention on the International Sale of Goods and write a brief for the claimant's position. Students also participate in an oral competition to determine who will represent the school in Vienna. In the spring semester, students selected in the fall write a brief for the respondent and prepare for the oral competition held in Vienna, Austria, in April.
LAW 6260	International Law	3	Hernandez	Today international law is in a state of flux. Some rules are confirmed, others are ambiguous and some appear to be discarded. To a large extent, the problems of international law are foundational. Is it the law of multiple states or is it a law of everything that is politically and economically relevant in the global community? This course seeks to respond to this reality. It addresses the specific problem: What is international law? It then examines how international law is made and applied in terms of the sources of international law, namely, treaty, custom, general principles of law, judicial decisions, equity and other sources of international law. It looks at the question of the application of international law as law. The second part of this course is an emphasis on the application of the sources of international law relating to its prescription and application. This brings the student
LAW 6930	International Business Transactions	3	Zheng	This course examines legal issues related to the regulation of international trade under U.S. law and multilateral agreements such as the World Trade Organization and the North American Free Trade Agreement. We will consider the major areas of international trade law affecting imports and exports of goods and services, including tariff classification, customs valuation, rules of origin, countervailing duties, antidumping duties, safeguards, sanitary and phytosanitary measures, technical barriers to trade, and export control. We will also consider certain emerging areas of international trade law and policy, including investor-state relations, trade in services, trade and intellectual property, trade and the environment, and trade and human rights.

Students who register for 3 credits will write a substantial paper in addition to taking the final and the paper for 3-credit students can satisfy the advanced writing requirement. Legal and policy issues raised by clashes between global rules promoting free trade and domestic efforts to conserve natural resources. The course explores the relationship between World Trade Organization rules reducing trade barriers and environmental treaties such as the Endangered Species Convention that rely on these very trade restrictions to manage resources, as well as efforts by the North American Free Trade Agreement and the Biodiversity Convention to reconcile the two critical public policy objectives. Equips future lawyers with background to advise how business strategies must account for both legal regimes.
LAW 6381	Interviewing & Counseling	3	Burke	Not available to students who have taken or are taking Interviewing, Counseling, and Negotiation (LAW 6388). An examination of theories and skills involved in interviewing clients and witnesses and counseling clients. Readings, videotapes, role plays, and simulations will be used to develop these theories and skills.
LAW 6381	Interviewing & Counseling	3	Peters	Learning and improving interviewing and counseling skills is not something that can be done passively but rather requires continuous engagement with action theories in reading assignments and performance exercises. This course spends little time presenting assigned materials and instead focuses discussions on applications of these action theories to video demonstrations and exercises. While others frequently offer feedback about your actions, and occasionally suggest different approaches, your learning in this course largely depends on your efforts to read, write, prepare, perform, reflect on, and evaluate your decisions and actions. The more effort invested, the more skill competency acquired. Usually the best source of helpful feedback on what went well and what might be done better differently are others participating in or observing your actions. Consequently, a critical component of this course is providing helpful and constructive feedback to each other. The more you help others learn, the richer your course experiences will be. This course requires several written assignments including: (1) action analysis papers [AAPs] following performances as lawyer in four simulations; (2) action choice charts [ACCs] completed after listening to audio recordings made of these performances; and (3) a final academic paper or practical project analyzing or developing aspects of interviewing and counseling.
LAW 6930	Interviewing, Counseling, & Negotiation	3	Grater, Schreiber	A pre-requisite for Civil Clinics: Full-Representation, Juvenile, Pro Se, and Domestic Violence – LAW 6940. LAW 6930	Juvenile Justice Law	3	Steinberg	This course explores the origins and continuing evolution of the juvenile justice system to address the question, "What do you do when the kid is a criminal and the criminal is a kid?" In addition to examining current laws, procedures, and policies that effect young offenders, we compare the procedure and jurisprudence of the current juvenile court to those of adult criminal court. The course considers models and "best practices" for juvenile justice systems across the 50 states to inform our discussion of the appropriate goals of juvenile court - rehabilitation or punishment. Thus, this course is a course as much about youth policy as about criminal law.

LAW 6930	Regulating Climate Change: Carbon Finance	1	Zhu	Class will last for 4 weeks, beginning around October 10. The use of fossilized energy has given rise to a lot of greenhouse gases (GHG), which has led to the greenhouse effect, global climate change and more extreme weather. In 1997, at the 3rd United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) Conference, a legally binding agreement--Kyoto Protocol was passed, which sets binding targets for 37 industrialized countries and the European community to reduce GHG emissions by an average of 5.4% against the 1990 levels over the period from 2008 to 2012. The participants of Kyoto Protocol could achieve their goals through three flexible mechanisms: Clean Development Mechanism (CDM), Joint Implementation (JI) and International Emission Trading (IET), which for the first time makes the GHG emission a tradable product globally. In 2009, the trade volume of allowances is about $7.4billion and the value is about $122.8billion, taking up 85% of the total carbon trade. As for the CDM market, the value is $2ber, will be solicited and required and will be amply considered in the determination of the final grade. advocating effectively in caucuses; (18) effective framing and reframing; (19) dealing with ATMA-checking [assessing alternatives to mediated agreements] effectively; (20) creating settlement agreements; (21) managing confidentiality issues; (22) mediation ethics issues for advocates and neutrals; (23) identifying and countering cognitive biases; and (24) dealing with cultural differences effectively.or to maximize, potential liability depending on the interests of the parties represented. LAW 6936	Selected Issues in International Law	2	Nagan	This seminar will cover several important issues in international law. It will cover selected problems concerning the use of force in international law. This will cover the role of law in the use of force, and aspects of the historical development of the role of law in the use of force. Particular attention will be given to the principle of collective and individual security in the use of force. Careful analysis will also be given of the principle of self-defense as well as selected issues relating to humanitarian law. An overview will be given of issues relating to weapons of mass destruction. Another issue will cover the broad theme of socio-economic justice in international law. Included in this context are the problems of economic theory and global development, including the international law regulating state debt, human rights and development, with particular attention devoted to the socio-economic rights of indigenous people. Specific illustrations will be drawn from the Shuar Nation of Ecuador.
LAW 6936	Sexuality and the Law	2	Day	This course will examine how the law has dealt with, applied to, and been enforced on issues relating to sexuality, and how sexual orientation and gender identity and expression influence the application of legal rules to individuals in our society. The seminar will address the role of the law in shaping the social meaning of sexuality, and how legal rights, protections, and deprivations have evolved based on identities as heterosexual, lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender in a number of contexts including employment, education, marriage, sexual expression, family relationships, and the military. Throughout the course, we will examine the extent to which assumptions about morality, gender, sex identity, and race have shaped the law's approach to sexuality, and the ways in which the movement for lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender rights is different from and similar to other rights movements. The course will emphasize constitutional doctrines, including equal protection, due process/privacy, freedom of speech, and freedom of association. With litigation and policy debates raging at all levels of federal and state judiciaries and governments, seldom has there been such a compelling opportunity to study an area of law as it evolves in real time.
LAW 6930	Social Justice Lawyering	2	Flocks	This course will explore how those in the legal profession can work to advance social justice. It will initially examine the meaning of social justice and the variety of structural factors that contribute to inequities in the legal system. It will then explore ways in which legal assistance programs are funded and delivered to low-income and underrepresented individuals; the different substantive legal arenas in which social justice can be pursued; and the diverse ways in which individuals can work for social justice, both in and out of the courtroom.
LAW 6930	Statutory Interpretation	2	Fenster	The law is increasingly defined by legislative enactments. Legislators, legislative staff, and lobbyists spend much of their time struggling to negotiate and draft statutes, which judges, administrators, and attorneys then spend a significant amount of time attempting to interpret. This course focuses especially on statutory interpretation by courts, but also covers the process of statutory enactment by legislatures and statutory implementation and enforcement by executive branches. The course materials include statutes, appellate decisions, and commentary from the relevant legal and political science literature.
