LAW 6474	Agricultural Law & Policy	2	Olexa	Millions of acres of US and Florida farm and ranch lands provide habitat protection for native animal and plant species, and natural buffers from urban sprawl. Agricultural production on these lands also serves as a critical component of state and national economies. A basic understanding of agriculture law and policy at Florida and national levels is critically important in addressing a variety of land use issues such as habitat preservation, agricultural zoning, and agricultural production as addressed through state and national legislation. This survey course provides the student with pragmatic information useful in addressing agricultural land use and management issues encountered in private practice. A sampling of topics addressed by the instructor and guest lecturers includes evolution of national farm bill legislation, agrichemical use and impact, conservation easements and Florida agricultural water policy as related to land use. Knowledge of agriculture is not required. Laptops are not to be used in class. The student's grade is based upon class participation (20%) and the final exam.
LAW 6550	Antitrust	3	Page	An analysis of the legal, economic and policy issues engendered by efforts to prescribe standards of business conduct and preserve competitive market structures under the Sherman Act, Clayton Act, Federal Trade Commission Act and related legislation.

LAW 6936	Criminal Law in the Virtual Context	2	Jacobs	The course will look at the emerging growth of virtual environments and the application of criminal law to activities that take place within virtual environments. Some of the issues explored will be regulation of gambling, child pornography, money laundering and other financial fraud. In addition, the class will examine how in the absence of specific laws, communities develop their own informal and informal legal codes. Any registrant in this class MUST have a computer that can meet the specifications of running the Second Life virtual platform. Specifications for the platform can be found on the website for Second Life, www.secondlife.com
LAW 5100	Criminal Law	3	Jacobs, Stinneford, Nunn, Johnston	Substantive law of crimes, including principles of punishment, elements of typical crimes, complicity, inchoate crime, responsibility and defenses.
LAW 6930	Criminal Litigation	3	Pierre-Antoine, Miller	The objective of this course is to develop students' legal skills by guiding them through several of the major steps involved in criminal litigation. Criminal Litigation will be offered as a three credit course and will meet once a week for three hours. The students will be divided into prosecutors and defense attorneys. Students will be given an information or indictment charging the defendant with a crime, and describing the factual allegations underlying the charge. The first half of each class session will be devoted to lecture, video presentations, short reading assignments and discussion. The second half of each class will consist of skills development through simulation exercises. A different topic will be covered in each class. Topics will include an overview of the criminal pretrial process, witness interviewing, preliminary hearings, plea bargaining, drafting a motion to suppress evidence, other pre and post trial motions; and how to conduct a suppression hearing. The class will also cover voir dire, writing opening statements, closing arguments, direct-and-cross-examinations, objections, jury instructions and sentencing hearings. The trial portion of this course will focus specifically on criminal trial strategy and substance, as opposed to the general trial process and technique which is covered in trial practice. By walking through these steps, students will strengthen their knowledge of criminal pretrial procedure, and develop their criminal litigation skills.
LAW 6112	Criminal Procedure: Adversarial Systems	3	Nunn	Covers commencement of formal criminal proceedings; bail, the decision to prosecute, the grand jury, the preliminary hearing, venue, joinder and severance, and speedy trial. LAW 6930	Federal Jurisdiction	3	Lear	This course will focus on the difficult issues inherent in federal jurisdiction. These include the constitutional and other issues raised by Federal Question and Diversity Jurisdiction, Supplemental Jurisdiction, the Erie Doctrine, Abstention, and the Federal Common Law.
LAW 6511	First Amendment Law	3	Collier	This course will analyze and criticize the philosophical and legal bases of important contemporary restrictions on freedom of expression. Connections with larger issues of tolerance and related principles of first amendment law will also be pursued.
LAW 6936	First Amendment Theory Seminar	2	Collier	In the past few years the seminar has, along with my research interests, focused on symbolic speech. First, I ask the students to review the cases we'll read. Then I ask the students to come to the second class with first, second, and maybe even third choices as to which case they would like to be responsible for, which means taking a lead role in its discussion and, at the end of the semester, doing a 15-min oral argument for one side of the case. I try to get "teams" of two students per case, one for each side, in line with their preferences to the extent possible. So the next few weeks are devoted to the discussion of the cases. After that the teams meet with me separately to discuss their oral arguments and their papers (about 20 pages, due at the end of the semester, and having "something to do" with their case). At some point I hand out the Guide for Counsel in Cases To Be Argued Before the Supreme Court of the United States (handout, from the seminar for oral arguments, with the class as the Court. This seems to lend an air of realism to the class, and it has worked well.
LAW 6930	FL Civil Procedure	3	Mashburn	Prereqs: Civil Procedure. This course surveys procedural law governing the litigation of civil cases in Florida. It explores in greater depth Florida state law counterparts to federal issues such as the judicial branch's control over procedure, personal jurisdiction, subject matter jurisdiction, and liberal pleading and discovery. It also examines the ways in which Florida's procedures differ from those of other jurisdictions and highlights some areas unique to Florida, such as heightened requirements for pleading punitive damages and the awarding of attorney's fees based on offers of judgement.
LAW 6503	FL Constitutional Law	2	Mills	Analysis of selected provisions of the Florida Constitution, with emphasis on recent decisions of the Florida Supreme Court; analysis of current proposals for constitutional change.
LAW 6930	FL Criminal Procedure	2	Dekle	A survey of the Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure. Will familiarize students with the rules, examine the nuances of the rules, explore commonly encountered pitfalls, and study the interplay between the rules and the Florida Statutes.

LAW 6930	FL Land Use Law	1	Hawkins	This course is designed to introduce students to issues they may encounter while practicing land use law as a Florida attorney. Students will read several Florida cases and Attorney General Opinions per semester. However, most of the reading assignments will consist of articles from the Florida Bar's Environmental and Land Use Law Section Treatise. By focusing most of the reading on selections from the treatise, students will be exposed to a wider range of Florida case law than possible if they had to read each case individually.
LAW 6286	Foreign Enrichment: Comparative International Trade Law & Policy	2	Powell/Zheng	While the rules of the World Trade Organization (WTO) govern the trade and investment laws and regulations of most major trading nations, trade and investment systems vary widely among WTO Members as a result of the discretion afforded them by WTO Agreements and a rich collection of some 500 regional trade and investment agreements such as the NAFTA, the European Union, MERCOSUR, and the South Asian Free Trade Agreement. Differences in these systems require an understanding of the cultural, legal, and political drivers of each approach to succeed either in global trade or in implementation of policies ranging from sustainable development to human rights. Experts from South America, Europe, and India will offer in-depth comparison of the various approaches to global trade and to the regulation of foreign direct investment.
LAW 6930	Future Interests	2	Wright	Pre-requisite: Estates and Trusts. Topics include protection of the family, termination of trusts, classification of possessory and future interests, gifts to classes and the Rule Against Perpetuities.
LAW 6936	Historic Preservation	2	McLendon	This seminar will be a survey of the legal structure behind historical and archaeological resources protection in the United States. The first part of the seminar will involve lectures, readings, and discussions of federal preservation laws, including both specific federal laws (e.g. the National Historic Preservation Act and NEPA,) as well as federal programs in support of preservation (e.g. the National Register of Historic Places.) The second part of the seminar will focus on the state and local preservation structure, especially the designation and protection of individual landmarks and historic districts. A final section will consider some of the constitutional issues raised by historic preservation, including takings, due process, and first amendment issues.

LAW 6936	International Environmental Law	2	Powell	Global environment problems are both complex and urgent, ranging from loss of biodiversity to climate change to cross-boundary pollution, ozone depletion, and wholesale degradation of the earth's oceans, forests, and non-renewable resources. This course is a study of the response of the international community of nation states to the global environmental crisis. The difficulty in addressing the environmental crisis is magnified by the parallel need to alleviate poverty, which is as urgent on a global scale as is protection of the environment, and is joined to environmental protection by the concept of sustainable development. Our course is a study of the subset of international law that both governs the global commons—atmosphere, climate, oceans, and stratospheric ozone layer—and guides the national obligations for ensuring transnational public health, advancing sustainable development, and managing the Earth's shared resources. Solving these problems requires creative and thoughtful action from many disciplines, not least the law. Our course will study the major multilateral environmental agreements, with an emphasis on cases decided by the International Court of Justice, the World Trade Court, and the Law of the Sea Tribunal. We will analyze emerging principles of international environmental law as well as the emerging human right to a healthy environment.
LAW 6263	International Human Rights Law	3	Hernandez	Introduction to international protection of human rights, including theoretical and practical aspects of human rights law, focusing on international, regional and domestic law contexts. Particular attention is given to procedures that characterize human rights mechanisms for both prescribing and applying human rights precepts.
LAW 6260	International Law	3	Hernandez	Today international law is in a state of flux. Some rules are confirmed, others are ambiguous and some appear to be discarded. To a large extent, the problems of international law are foundational. Is it the law of multiple states or is it a law of everything that is politically and economically relevant in the global community? This course seeks to respond to this reality. It addresses the specific problem: What is international law? It then examines how international law is made and applied in terms of the sources of international law, namely, treaty, custom, general principles of law, judicial decisions, equity and other sources of international law. It looks at the question of the application of international law as law. The second part of this course is an emphasis on the application of the sources of international law relating to its prescription and application. This brings the student to the specifics of reading and digesting problems and working on the sources of the law to argue about those problems and to resolve them. The problems include war, terrorism, ethnic conflict and weapons of mass destruction, human rights litigation and issues of socio-economic justice.
